Armed with nine San Mateo county John Doe warrants issued yesterday, the police of San Francisco are today scouring the bay region in an effort to find the wine bandits who robbed Julien Hurt and his household in the McNear home at Menlo Park on Wednesday.

No developments in the chase, which has just been joined in by the Pinkerton detective agency, are finding of additional bottles of liquor at the Gourasolia place; implements used by the bandits in breaking through the wine vault and other

The police announced today that they are in possession of a sample of the handwriting of the leader of the bandits. This was secured by Miss Conway through a ruse when she asked him to prepare a list of the articles taken by his men.

Adrienne Goursolle, arrested on a charge of having stolen property in his possession, has been formally charged. His arrest was coincident to the discovery of about one-eighth of

When the detective under the direction of Detective-Sergeant Arthur McQuaide raided the Goursolle home, George ("Tony") Goursolle, the old man's son, who is believed to be the leader of the gang of nine, escaped through a rear door and over back fences.

The police are still of the belief that the robbery was perpetrated by members of the jitney driver's organization in San Francisco. The younger Goursolle is a jitney driver, and Detective-Sergeant McQuaide questioned 30 other drivers yesterday. All are under surveillance.

Today Julien Hart, who leased the house from McNear some time ago, said that in addition to the liquor taken from the house in the basement the thieves stole a quantity of silverware the value of which is placed roughly at $10,000.

Unable to give a description of the articles of silverware taken by the bandits, Hart has wired McNear who is touring near Cairo for a complete bottles of liquor were found concealed under the wood-pile at the rear of the house. The police also found a pick and a sledge hammer containing traces of cement on the edge.

"I tell you I know nothing about it," protests Gourselle. "I did not see the liquor until a policeman came and found it. My boy George is a good boy. I tell you he didn't do it."

The police contend that the younger Goursolle has a criminal record despite the statement of the father.

DETECTIVES BELIEVE MEN ARE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

It is the belief of Philip E. Geague, head of the Pinkerton Detective Agency in San Francisco, that the banits are now in that city and the agency has been sent out to comb the underworld in an effort to bring them to justice.

The Pinkertons are working on a clew inadvertently dropped by one of the bandits who mentioned "Portland Alley" as a rendezvous just before the caravan of criminals left the McNear residence after twelve hours of seclusion at the expense of McNear and Hart.

Meanwhile further statements from the occupants of the house who were held at bay by the bandits for more than twelve hours have brought forth some interesting sidelights on the crime according to the

HART HAD CHANCE TO KILL BANDIT LEADER.

It was learned today that at one time Hart could have shot and killed the leader of the bandit crew when he found himself behind the bandit with a loaded revolver at his feet. "I could have killed him easily," said Hart. "It was in the early morning while the liquor was being taken away by the robbers. The leader remained behind with only two of his men. I turned the idea over in my mind and decided in his favor. He had told me that demands of his wife for dresses had driven him to crime."

The police also ascertained from questioning of the victims that the bandits had divulged the information that the death of Hart's bulldog by poison six weeks ago was part of LOS ANGELES, March 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—The police were puzzled today by a series of mysterious shootings in Brooklyn in which three men, unknown to each other, were hit by bullets. All the shootings occurred in the same general neighborhood within an hour.

Robert Sabundy, a passenger on a Lexington avenue elevated train, was struck by a bullet in the leg. He heard no shot.

While the police were questioning nearby residents, James Carey, who was walking along Cumberland street, was hit in the side by a bullet. He too, heard no shot.

Soon afterward, Thomas Campbell, who was walking on Norland avenue, was shot in the right shoulder. He said he had heard no shot. All were sent to hospitals. Their wounds were not serious.

Two hundred candidates were initiated into the mystery of the K. K. K. initiation ceremony performed near this city in the foothills on Thursday night.

The initiation was witnessed by members of the organization, whose white-robed figures formed a back-ground for the neophytes. The ground around the altar was a human square around the flag-draped altar set at the top of an incline, and the initiation ceremony started with the crack of a gun and in the light of a flaming cross.

Members of the Klan had made the altar and elaborate preparations for the initiation ritual. All roads near the actual location had been carefully guarded by white-robed figures, who stopped the automobiles of those participating and only gave directions when the occupants had passed their scrutiny.

Nearly 100 automobiles were parked along the tunnel road a short distance from the tunnel and zonal directions were given the neophytes here by other Klansmen. For about an hour before the actual initiation ceremony started the neophytes gathered a short distance from the altar and awaited the opening of the affair. When a muffled revolver shot broke the silence the men approached the altar in single file and the oath was administered.

The initiation was said to have been attended by members of the secret organization from various parts of the bay region. It follows a membership drive recently conducted in this city.

PALACE SHELLED, FIUME CAPTURED BY REBEL HORDE

President Zanella Overthrown
After Spirited Street
Battle.

FIUME, March 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—The committee of national defense proclaimed the final overthrow of the provisional government under President Zanella and the constituent assembly today. The government capitulated after fierce fighting.

The committee, upon assuming power, asked the Italian government to send a representative to administer the government of the city until quiet is restored.

Rome dispatches last night declared that President Zanella and his followers had fled to Buccari, near Fiume, after issuing a declaration transferring the authority to the national committee of defense. The capitulation followed an attack on the government palace by Fascist, who fired twenty cannon shots into the building.

ROME MYSTIFIED.—(By the Associated Press.)—The council of ministers today discussed at length the crisis in Fiume which has complicated the already difficult situation confronting the new cabinet.

The attitude of President Zanella, who has been forced to hand over the government to the national committee of defense, does not appear quite clear here. Shortly after he assumed power in October last he came to Rome and obtained a loan of 200,000,000 lire. He then expressed a great belief in the Italian aspirations in Fiume, but upon his return to that place last month he immediately incurred the enmity of the Italian element.

Since early yesterday forces of Fascist, Legionaries and Republicans have been in possession of the city. They captured the posts and telegraphs, and before motor cars, the police organized by Zanella retired to the government palace. The government forces had as their first line of defense a wall enclosing the small park in which the president's residence was situated. They were soon obliged to retire inside the building.

PALACE SHELLED.—Zanella's forces placed machine guns on the roof of the palace, which for some time checked the progress of their assailants. Deputy Giunta, leader of the Fascist, then captured an armored motor boat belonging to the Italian navy in the neighboring bay. The boat, with its guns opened fire against the palace. Thirty 75-millimeter shells were thrown into the building, doing considerable damage.

Italian torpedo boats in Fiume harbor captured an armored motor boat, which was again seized by the Fascist, who resumed their bombardment of the palace. The defenders then hoisted a white flag.

The report that Zanella fled from the city is denied. According to latest reports he was still inside the palace in the same room in which Gabriele d'Annunzio was slightly wounded by the fire of the troops sent against him by former Premier Giolitti in 1920.

Zanella has signed a statement agreeing to retire forever from public life in Fiume and renouncing any aspiration of a political character.

A committee of national defense has invited the Italian government to assume the administration of the city.

The Zanella police force escaped to the neighboring village of Fiumefreddo, where, according to reports, it is enrolling Croats for an attempt to recapture Fiume.

The Fascist and legionaries are remaining under arms and have formed a national guard of honor, so as to be ready for any attack.

One account places the losses of the Zanella forces at three killed and fifty wounded.

FRENCH TEUTONS
IN BATTLE WITH PAPER 'BULLETS'

FRANKFURT-ON-MAIN, March 4.—The war between France and Germany continues. It is a war of paper bullets, with the Rhineland as the battlefield.

Speak to any German in the occupied territory and he will tell you that the French administration is carrying on a deliberate propaganda for the separation of the Rhine provinces from the German Fatherland, with a view to their subsequent annexation to France.

The French deny this and charge, on the contrary, that the German government is smuggling the best Communist agitators into the occupied zone in order to contaminate the army with the virus of Bolshevism. They admit that there is a movement on foot for the creation of a Rhenish republic.

But this, they say, is the free expression of the people of the territory who want to sever the bonds which have connected them with the government of Berlin.

The bitterness of the paper war has been increased by the recent friction over the Saar Basin. In the treaty of Versailles there is a provision for a plebiscite to be held fifteen years from the date of the armistice. The French have ruled that any person living in the Saar for one year becomes an inhabitant of the region, while any person absent from the country for twelve months loses his claim to local citizenship. In the eyes of the German newspapers this is a ruse to increase the colonization of the territory by Frenchmen who will be able to vote in the plebiscite, while emigrated Germans will forfeit their right to the ballot.

GIRL'S RUSE GIVES POLICE ONLY CLEW TO BOOZE BANDITS

Aviatrix Induces the Robber
Chief to Write List of Loot

The plot to effect entrance and armed entrance had actually been effected two weeks ago.

NOTE DROPPED FROM WINDOW BY AVIATRIX.—During the reign of terror in the house Miss Mary Josephine Conway, aviatrix, Stanford student and guest of Hart, managed to write and cast from the window a note to a neighbor telling of the predicament in which the household found itself. The note was not found by the neighbor but by the police. It read:

"Judge Shurtliff: We are being robbed by nine men in seven cars. Have no one approach, but guard highway. J. Hart, McNear residence."

"I hoped that the gardener might find the message and take it to Judge Shurtliff," said Miss Conway. "The note was not found until yesterday afternoon, when one of the Pinkerton detectives discovered it."

The story of the robbery of the McNear residence reads with all the thrills of a "dime novel." According to the police, nine men appeared at the palatial San Mateo county mansion Wednesday evening, overpowered the members of the household and proceeded leisurely to loot the place.

VALUE OF LOOT IS ESTIMATED AT $35,000.—While members of the gang entertained Hart, who leases the place, and Miss Conway, his guest, in the living room, others drilled through the steel and concrete door of the cellar liquor and silverware vault and stole the contents, valued roughly at $35,000.

All members of the household, with the exception of Hart's two children and a Chinese servant, were bound and gagged and forced, helpless witnesses of the robbery that followed the discovery of the liquor by the thieves. The bandits remained until after noon the following day.

The two Hart children, James and Ellen, were not molested. The boy was guarded by members of the gang, but the girl slipped through the major part of the revelry.

LLOYD GEORGE ADMITS ERROR, SAYS SENATOR

Welshman's Genius Lies in Readiness to Admit Mistakes, Declares Borah.

By SEN. WILLIAM E. BORAH, United States Senator from Idaho. (Written for International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Lloyd George, according to the news despatches, is again in peril. No one will be surprised to see him escape unscathed, but it is the event, whether he succeeds in this particular incident, or fails, his career has been one of the most eventful in all the history of his country. A country blessed with a multitude of great names. What is the secret of his power? His genius consists of his willingness to admit his mistakes—after all, a rare genius. He has the courage to change his program when manifestly in error. He has seen the fearful blunder of the Versailles treaty. He understands that it is this which is now holding Europe in economic straits and demoralizing the whole continent. He therefore wants a change, or a revision of the treaty.

WRONG ON RUSSIA.

He also recognizes the mistake, if not the crime, of the allied and associated powers in their treatment of Russia. He understands now that the blockade of Russia after the armistice constituted one of the great wrongs of history and worked a detriment unparalleled to Europe and to the world. He undoubtedly believes that the time has come to recognize the present government of Russia, to bring Russia back into the family of nations, to open up trade and commerce with Russia, and thus take the most important step toward the stabilization and rehabilitation of Europe—a step without which no permanent peace can be achieved. He believes that the houses and tariffs and subsidies will not bring prosperity even to the United States.

COURAGE TO ADMIT.

Lloyd George, in other words, has the capacity to realize when he has been run over by events, and the courage to admit it and change his future programs in accordance with such experiences.

The action of the allied nations toward Russia is almost incalculable. It is based upon a narrow, bigoted, shortsighted policy, which, in different ways, has brought on almost as much misery to the human family as the war itself. We have appropriated millions to feed the Russian people and yet our action is helping to retard immeasurably the capacity of the Russian people to feed themselves. We continue to pour money into Russia to prevent her recovery after the war and we are still engaged in the same policy. Our own people are paying for it, not only in the taxes which are assessed to take care of the war, but in the retardation of the recovery of Europe and thereby indirectly of our own country.

There is no such thing as peace, either physically or mentally or spiritually, in Europe with 139,000,000 people outlived and an entire continent harassed and tormented and that continent is being harassed and tormented by the Versailles treaty.

Yeast Makers Under Prohibition Ban

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEADERS WIRE TO TRIBUNE. WASHINGTON, March 4.—Prohibition officials in New York and ten other cities where branch agencies of the Fleischmann Yeast Company are located have been ordered to execute the orders of Prohibition Commissioner Haynes to seize all supplies of industrial alcohol in the plants. The orders were issued last night following the revocation of the company's industrial alcohol permits.

As ground for this action, which the prohibition commissioner said he regarded as "one of the biggest things done by the prohibition bureau," Haynes, in a statement, charged the company with "diversion of non-beverage alcohol for beverage purposes" and among other things with disposing of "beverage alcohol on permits and without permits to purchase."

California, particularly Northern California, is famous for its many landmarks associated with early history of the Pacific coast. One of these is "Bloody Rock," along the north coast. Ross H. Ryder tells how the rock got its name in next Sunday's TRIBUNE Magazine.

British Tories Abandon Fight Against Premier

LONDON, March 4.—Definite proof that Lloyd George has won his fight for peace in the coalition ranks for the time being was seen by political circles today in an interview with Sir George Younger, published by the Cardiff Western Mail, in which the Unionist "diehard" leader expressed regret that his recent speeches have been interpreted as attacks upon the prime minister.

RESIGNATION PREDICTED.

LONDON, March 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—What was regarded in political circles as seemingly a plain intimation of the early resignation of Prime Minister Lloyd George, with an endorsement from a national Unionist party out of the Moderate Conservatives and Coalition Liberals, was given by Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary for the colonies, in an address at Doughty, this afternoon.

This part, as Mr. Churchill described it in the reports of his speech received here, would be "liberal, progressive and in line with the outlook at home and abroad, and resolute also to uphold and maintain the traditions of the state and the power and unity of the empire."

American Doctor Killed by Native Assassins in Thibet

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEADERS WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 4.—

Rev. A. L. Shelton, medical missionary of the Disciples of Christ (Christian Church) in Thibet, was murdered by native assassins near Batang, February 17, according to a cablegram received by the United Christian Missionary Society here today. Dr. Shelton escaped from a brigand band in China in January of 1921 after having been kidnapped and held for ransom for 60 days.

The cablegram came from the missionary in China, and read:

"Robbers killed Shelton near Batang, February 17. Notify girls."

The girls referred to are Dr. Shelton's daughters, Dorothy, 17, and Dorris, 15, who are attending school in Pomona, Calif.

Dr. Shelton's headquarters were at Batang, near the Thibet border, and Dr. Shelton's big game was from the mountains in the region.

Likewise, the United Christian Missionary Society, a fifteen days' journey and this, it was explained, is responsible for the delay in reporting the murder.

Although Thibet has not been open to the world since 1880, it has been reported from Vancouver last August to open a hospital at Lhasa. He had received a written invitation from the Dalai Lama, the supreme power in the Buddhist religion in the province, to establish the hospital in recognition of his work among Thibetan soldiers. The last word received from Dr. Shelton was when he was fifteen days' journey out of Batang, which he said he hoped to reach December 12.

NOTED BARTENDER EXILE IN EUROPE

NICE, March 4.—(United Press.)—"Smiling" Fred Martin, globe-trotting American bartender, who has mixed a cocktail in every port and is better known to many American tourists than the Eiffel tower or St. Peter's, has quit the profession.

To speak accurately, Fred has lost his job. During the summer of last year, Fred has presided over the creation of near-absinthe fizzes at the Casino de Monte-Carlo, and he has welcomed his friends from behind the "American bar" at the Municipal Casino here.

It was a bewitching young woman with a New York accent that cost Fred his job. During the summer of last year, Fred never could resist a New York accent, he says. She had lost heavily at baccarat. She knew she could win if she only had 5000 francs more.

It is strictly forbidden for an employee of the Casino to loan money. But the known reminder of Fred of a girl he'd known in Harlem. He counted on the Casino to loan money. Fred never could resist a New York accent, he says. She had lost heavily at baccarat. She knew she could win if she only had 5000 francs more.

But never again for me," says Fred. "An American bartender is an exile, anyhow, these days. I guess I'll take my wife and my motor car and make a tour of Europe. Why work, anyhow, when one isn't appreciated?"

LONDON GROANS AS RESTRICTIONS HIT PUBLIC HOUSE

Business Depression Charged to Government Rules in Letter to Court.

LONDON, March 4.—Government restrictions are blamed in part for the business depression in London in a letter which the Imperial Commercial Association has sent to the liquor licensing justices. Its signers predict that disastrous results will follow the closing of public houses at 10 o'clock as foreshadowed.

The letter is signed by Baron Inchcape, one of the leading shipping men of Great Britain; Baron Swaythling, banker; Baron Ritchie, vice-chancellor of the Court of London; Lord Balfour of Burleigh, former Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Trade; Baron Ashfield, chairman of the Great Central Railway; Viscount Devonport, chairman of the Port of London Authority and former food controller, and Sir J. P. Hewitt.

They asserted that "it is probable that never in the history of this country has the liberty of the individual been more subject to rigorous limitations than at present."

"London has flourished and become famous largely because of the attractive features which it has presented to the traveling public, but the tightening grip of control is changing all this."

The association contends that much of the blame for the present unhappy condition of trade and commerce "must be apportioned to the restrictions and limitations imposed upon business and individuals by authorities."

The writers assert that these restrictions result in the establishment of an arbitrary and bureaucratic authority, and the limitation of the right of the citizen to conduct himself with that freedom which is an essential part of the character of a free citizen.

"Key Money" Graft Will Be Abolished

SHANGHAI, January 23.—(By Mail.)—"Key money," an institution peculiar to Shanghai, and one of the most burdensome for the man seeking a dwelling place in this era of high rents, has come under official disapproval and is condemned in a recent ruling of the mixed court of Shanghai.

"Key money," so called, simply is a bonus exacted from tenants on taking of houses they rent, and commonly in Shanghai amounts to three or four times the amount of the monthly rental for a house.

"We do not consider that new tenants should be required to pay more than other tenants of similar classes of houses," says the mixed court ruling, and we will give no official recognition to the practice of taking key money, of which we strongly disapprove."

ALAMEDA C. OF C. ADOPTS UNITY AS ITS 1922 SLOGAN

Business Men at Dinner Session Suggest Methods of Advancing City.

ALAMEDA, March 4.—Consolidate the interest of Alameda. This slogan formed the key note of one of the most enthusiastic meetings yet held by the directors of the Alameda Chamber of Commerce last night in Mead's restaurant. The meeting was for the purpose of outlining the future policies of the organization.

Joseph H. Knowland urged the development of Bay Farm Island and increased industrial development. He also spoke in favor of having visiting delegations of commercial bodies routed through Alameda when inspecting the Eastbay district. Central avenue he designated as one of the handsomest thoroughfares in the country.

O. J. Mead, restaurant man, created considerable enthusiasm through his expressions of confidence in the future of Alameda. He declared that if the business men of Alameda were to hold the trade to this city they must have faith in it and fix up their places of business so they will be strong enough to attract the buying public. Walter Graham urged the construction of a new and large hotel to encourage the coming of tourists and other visitors.

A plan to bring in home-seekers was submitted to the directors by C. C. Adams. He suggested that a system could be devised whereby buildings could be erected upon the present vacant lots of the city and then sold on easy terms to prospective buyers.

E. E. Hickok, city engineer, declared that if the proposed water district was made a reality it would serve in a great measure in creating better homes and in developing the city also as an industrial center.

J. A. Powell pointed out the possibilities of the waterfront of Alameda. Edward Babue, representing the west end district, expressed the opinion that the old waterfront of Alameda was practically eliminated and that the city was now ripe for progress. The same thought was expressed by C. C. Wilson, the new secretary. He urged the active support of the Health Center, the Community Forum, and plans to make Alameda the garden city of California.

A committee consisting of W. J. Locke, Edwin Pelton and E. J. Neiss was appointed by President Carl Strom to arrange for a membership drive. A reorganization banquet will also be held in the near future.

NEWARK C. OF C. MEETING TO BE HELD TUESDAY

Building Plans to Be Made by Progressive Citizens of Industrial Town.

NEWARK, March 4.—Postponement of the Chamber of Commerce meeting at which the Newark housing shortage was to be discussed, from Monday night to Tuesday night of next week, has been announced through Louis Ruschin, one of the committee responsible for the calling of the meeting.

A larger attendance will be possible Tuesday night, Ruschin said today, and it is expected that the meeting will be one of the most important in the history of the community, as the decision reached by the citizens will affect the future expansion of the town.

Lack of houses has kept scores of families from locating permanently here, according to Ruschin, and with the new additions to the factory of the James Grahame Manufacturing Company, the need for more houses has become imperative.

A building and loan plan to stimulate building activities will be the principal topic of discussion at the meeting.

CONTRA COSTA HAS GREATEST BUYING POWER

Transbay County Leads the Nation in Per Capita Purchasing Power.

MARTINEZ, March 4.—Contra Costa county has a new claim to fame today.

Boosted as one of the greatest agricultural and the greatest industrial counties in the state, Contra Costa now is demanding national recognition for its wealth.

It tops all counties in the United States in buying power per capita. This fact has been established by the Dartnell Corporation of Chicago as the result of a nationwide survey, and became known here today for the first time with receipt of a letter by C. W. Thissell, local jeweler, from a San Francisco wholesale jewelry firm which has obtained national statistics.

Here are some facts revealed by the Dartnell Corporation's survey: Buying power per capita in Contra Costa is $5418. The highest per capita rate in any other county in the United States is $3300. The value of manufactured products is $281,943,251. The value of crops is $10,044,871. The value of one of the automobile owners in the county. Population is fixed at 55,525. OREGON LEADS MEXICO TO PEACE SAYS S. J. MAN

Recognition Should Be Given to Save U. S. Trade in Mexico, Says Merchant.

SAN JOSE, March 4.—President Oregon of Mexico is "making good," according to a statement by Max Blum, prominent local merchant, who returned here yesterday from a visit into the interior of Mexico. The Mexican president, he declares, has won virtually the united support of the people of his country and his decrees are greeted with much favor.

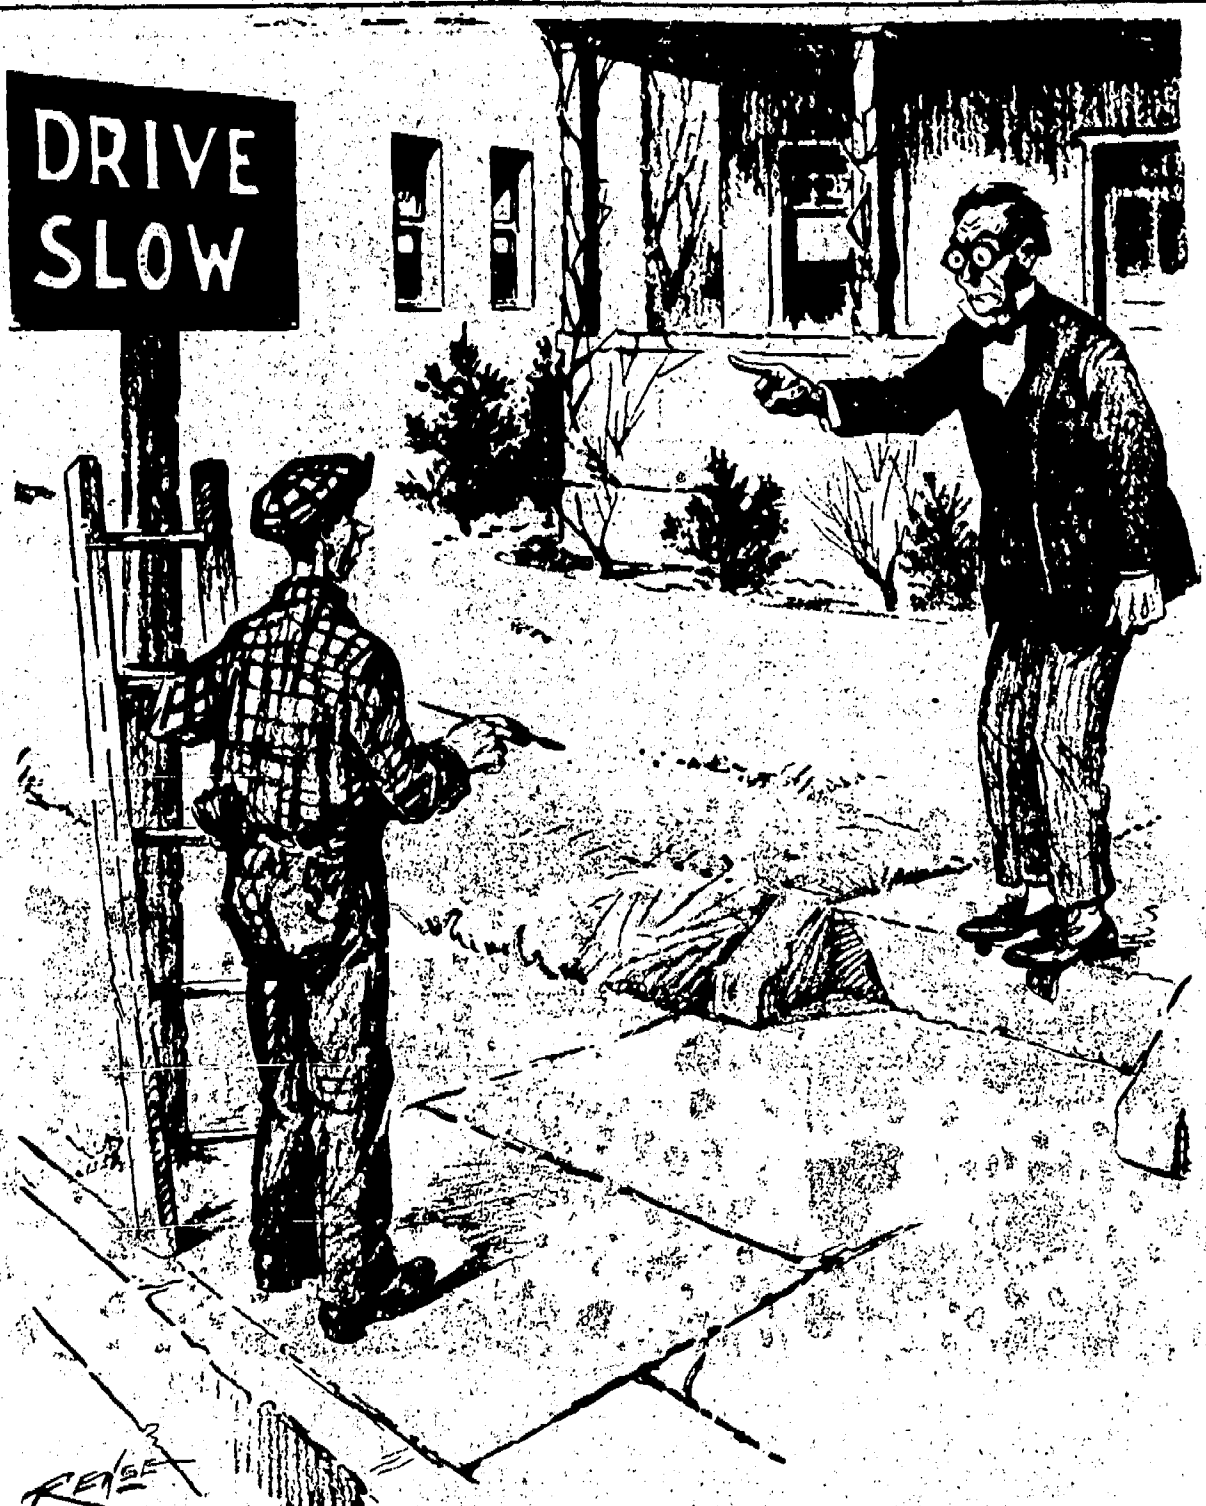

Oregon, according to the sentiment expressed by Blum, would grant concessions sought by the United States before recognition is given his government, but is being deterred from this course by the sentiment of his people, who are against the granting of such concessions.

While opposed to America's desires being granted, Blum says, the Mexicans greet the Americans with a certain degree of friendliness and apparently the relationships between the two countries are not nearly as strained as heretofore. He declares that this country is suffering not being on diplomatic terms with Mexico. As a result, he says, Germany, France and England are building up a tremendous trade in Mexico, Germany being particularly active.

Blum stated that his party found business conditions much better than they had anticipated. He declared that the found little unemployment, but that money was somewhat scarce, there being no currency in circulation.

In connection with business men of New York and other Eastern points, Blum is planning the opening of a large general wholesale merchandising business in Mexico City, his firm having agreed to take over large agencies that will be operated on an exclusive basis. The new business will necessitate Blum's making several trips a year to Mexico City.

Only in Sunday's Edition of Oakland Tribune Will These Features Appear

President Harding today completed his first year of service in the White House, and Robert T. Small, Washington political authority, makes the anniversary the occasion to furnish readers of the SUNDAY TRIBUNE with a review of the administration's accomplishments. Harding, he declares, looks back with pride on the past twelve months, feeling that he has nothing to retract, no matter what his political opponents may say. He feels that he has lived up to his reputation of never having broken an election promise. He has completed during the opening quarter of his term the program of legislative recommendations he had outlined for his entire administration, regardless of what Congress has done or has not done.

Andre Tardieu, former French commissioner to America, presents this week a strong bid for a better feeling in America toward France. He believes that this is the nearest sequel to the patching up of the Franco-British relations, at the recent conference, between Lloyd George and Poincare. Tardieu, a French statesman, has not changed, the French people, he pleads, do not desire a harsh judgment recently meted out.

Maximilian Harden, Germany's foremost publicist, sends a "unique contribution" from Berlin. He also refers to the French statesman, Andre Tardieu, who is visiting America, and says that he would have made to them had he been invited to their conference. Tardieu, he says, is a "futile" figure, and that the French people are not to be blamed for the blunders of their government.

George N. Barnes, British parliamentary leader, fears that Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith may be forfeiting future leadership in the Irish Free State because they are completely absorbed in co-operation with the British government for the time being. Barnes, he says, is free from America or other outside influences.

It has leaked out in Paris that former Premier Viviani and Foch were the principals in an amusing situation when they both sailed from America on the same liner last month. Foch was in the guest of the American ambassador, and Viviani, on the vessel, and Viviani and Madame Viviani were simple tourists, their efforts to the contrary notwithstanding. Paris has enjoyed the story, says Grant Gordon, and so he included it for The TRIBUNE's readers.

After thirty years in the United States senate, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts has a stiff battle on at the capital has made him a particular mark for the Democrats and the national committee plans to join the state body in the fight to prevent his return. But Lodge and his friends are not worrying. They claim he always has received considerable support from the Democrats and that this aid will be larger than usual in the coming struggle. Edmund H. Hays, a close follower of politics in the Bay State, relates the details of the contest.

The special articles for the financial pages carry nothing but good news. Incoming from Washington, as it has not been for months. There are 250,000 more men employed on the American railroads and in the mines than on January 1. Continuing the recovery of the country, the steel situation as further evidences of increasing prosperity. Stuart P. West, Wall Street expert, also contributes an article of special interest to those of the financial or business world.

The weekly round of events in New York continues to furnish its quota of the amusing and the remarkable. Under the heading "Seven Days in the Life of New York," Jessie Henderson relates the unusual happenings in her inimitable style.

The advent of Lent has brought at least some rest to the public eye as afforded weekly in "Men and Affairs." Among those woven into this Sunday's column are Princess Mary and the Prince of Wales, the late General Watson, Canada's editor-soldier, an Ohio governor of Colorado.

There is no sackcloth and ashes in Washington, despite the arrival of the Lenten season. Just to prove it, Evelyn C. Hunt has wired an article on "what they're wearing" in social circles at the national capital. It will be found in the society section.

There are vamps and vampires, but not much note is taken of the male vampire. "The Vamps of History" is the title of an illuminating special article, illustrated with colors, which will appear in Sunday's Magazine.

Much has been written about the queens of the Apaches of the West, but there are queens of the Apache and he tells about some of them in Sunday's Magazine.

AUXILIARY OF WAR FATHERS FORMED AT S. J.

Fathers of Ex-Service Men Organize First Auxiliary to Legion in Nation.

SAN JOSE, March 4.—What is believed to be the first organization of its kind in the United States—a fathers' auxiliary of the American Legion—came into being at an enthusiastic meeting held here in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night.

Fathers of ex-service men and members of San Jose Post No. 89, American Legion, who attended the meeting were unanimous in expressing the need for the new organization. In the matter of perpetuating memories of the world war, it was pointed out, fathers of ex-service men have been relegated to the background. Mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of ex-service men, it was pointed out, are privileged to join the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion, while all that "poor father" can do is put out his chest while reciting the achievements of his son during the world war. The formation of the fathers' auxiliary to the Legion, it was stated, would correct this situation and enable fathers to participate more actively in patriotic affairs in which he has heretofore been almost an "outsider."

Permanent organization will be effected next Tuesday evening, following the meeting of the local American Legion post, to which all fathers of ex-service men are invited. At this meeting officers of the new organization will be elected. On the membership committee, the duty of which will be to urge all fathers to attend Tuesday's meeting, the following were last night appointed:

Nicholas Bowden, J. A. Chargin, J. A. Anthes, H. R. Rine, W. Tustin, W. A. Watson, C. T. Nelson, H. H. Guldberg, and John T. Laws.

The facts, so far as they are known, about the mysterious personality of Robin Hood will be told in The TRIBUNE Magazine, one of the series under the heading "History's Mysteries."

Gladys Walton not long ago was a school girl of Portland, Ore. She is the heroine of the bright story in the motion picture firmament. How she "arrived" is told in The TRIBUNE Magazine. The story should be an inspiration for all girls in all walks of life.

Inside glimpses into San Francisco's political life are a weekly feature of the Sunday Knave page. Other interesting material helps make up this department of The TRIBUNE.

The advice received here came in the form of a cablegram stating the Chinaman is held and stating the huge ransom value. It further states that the prisoner is in custody of friendly Chinese in Shanghai, last portion of the cablegram is directed at them or friends in China. Lee John left this city for China several months ago planning to return later to America and again take up his apple business north of here. He is reputed to have made a fortune here.

Total Loss!

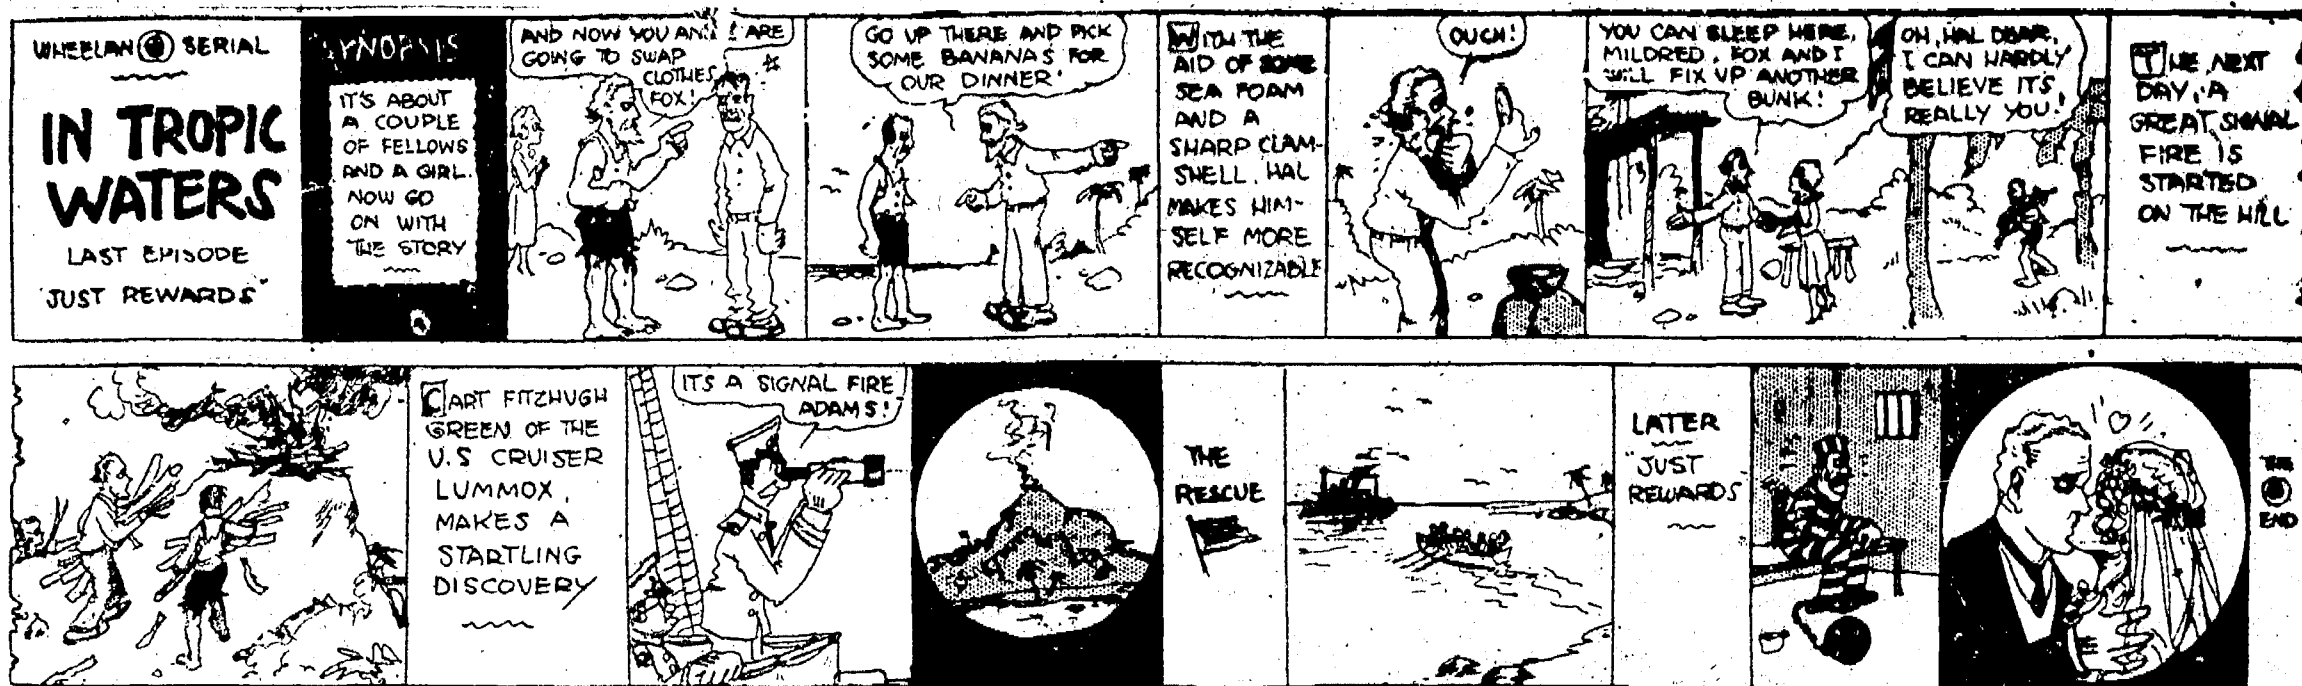

For the first time in the history of the state—it was a Southern State—an electrocution took place within the walls of the state prison. The legislature, keeping step with the march of progress and civilization, had ordered the installation of an electric chair to take the honored place of the old-fashioned slip-noose under the left ear of the fathers of the commonwealth. A negro "trusty" was an unwilling witness to the first performance under the new arrangement. The warden had detailed him as helper to the paid executioner. He issued forth from the lethal chamber with popped eyes and ashen face. A group of his fellow convicts knotted about him anxious to hear the grisly details. He proceeded to elucidate: "Well, suzz," he said, with a shiver, "they teks an' strops you down, hand an' foot in a big cheer. An' den they clamps some lil' things onto your haid an' you laigs. An' den one of de wite men he step over to whar they's a little jigger set in de wall an' he give it a lil' yank—zzz—lak dat!" There ne paused and fetched a deep breath. "Whut den? whut den?" came the chorus. "Nothin' but ruin—jes' absolute ruin!"

How I Raised My Parents.

By an Ex-Child

(Chapter IX)

I HUMBLE THEIR FALSE PRIDE

Ever since I can remember, my parents seemed to have an inordinate pride in my achievements. I can shut my eyes right now and recall the incredulous look of amazement in Rough Face's eyes when I first said Goo Goo, or maybe it was Blah, I forget which. Now, it really was nothing for me to say Goo Goo, but poor, simple Rough Face thought it was marvelous and he went all over town telling everybody how wonderful I was.

Later, when I could sing Peter Piper and pick out Mary Had a Little Lamb on the Piano, I mean I could pick out on the piano the tune Mary Had a Little Lamb—anyway, you know what I mean—well when I could do that Smooth Face could hardly wait until the neighbors came in so she could have me perform for them. She refused to realize, of course, that they had little Goo Goo's and little Blah's of their own who could do painful things to Mary's Little Lamb. (No wonder we never heard of Mary's Little Sheep . . . the poor little animal never recovered.)

Be that as it may, as soon as I heard that Smooth Face had invited the neighbors in, to hear me perform I decided it was time for me to save her from her own pride. So I calmly waited until the parlor was full of neighbors and I was called upon to do my stuff. Then, instead of singing Peter Piper or playing Mary Had a Little Lamb, I did nothing. Smooth Face begged and pleaded, but I steadfastly refused. Rough Face made faces at me from behind the portieres and made peculiar motions which I learned later, much to my regret, meant standing up to eat for a few days, but I ignored him. Smooth Face assured the neighbors over and over that I had never acted like that before, and told them how smart I was and begged me to prove it, but no. I had made up my mind that it would do her good to have her pride humbled, and it would also do Rough Face good not to have his own way once.

The neighbors all went home convinced that I was a little mutt and that their Goo Goo's and Blah's had me lashed to the mast. But I didn't care. Of course, what Smooth Face did to a certain segment of my anatomy with a hairbrush was a bit distressing, and the ceremonial which Rough Face went through with his razor strap convinced me that Rough Faces have no gratitude in their make-up.

But I had cured them of their false pride. They never boasted about me after that. It is true that Rough Face says I have never given him any reason to brag, but I believe that is merely his way of getting out of thanking me for what I have done for him. Parents are never sufficiently appreciative of what their children must go through to raise them properly.

LIBRARIES ISSUE 17,000,000 BOOKS TO CALIFORNIANS

Figures for Fiscal Year Show
Madera County Leads the State as Readers.

SACRAMENTO, March 4.—Near-ly 17,000,000 books were borrowed from California libraries during the year ending June 30, 1921, according to a statistical summary just completed by State Librarian Milton J. Ferguson.

This is an increase of more than 3,000,000 volumes over the year 1919-1920. Mr. Ferguson reported, but because of the increase in population of the state the average of slightly under five volumes per person remains unchanged. The total circulation was 18,811,409.

Madera county replaces Trinity county as the section of the state using the greatest number of books. Madera county figures show that every person in that county borrowed nearly nine books a year, or a mathematical average of 8.9 volumes. San Diego county ranks second, with an average of 8.4 volumes, and Lassen third, with an average of 8.1 volumes.

These millions of books were distributed through the medium of forty-two county free libraries, 129 city libraries and 1132 branch libraries and deposit stations, but does not include the use of sixty-seven law libraries and 369 educational institution libraries. Included in these figures are 30,283 volumes of embossed type material loaned to blind readers throughout the state.

ACTIVITIES WOMEN

Quaint Studio To Be Setting For Nuptials

For the wedding of Miss Gladys Partridge and Louis Domeratsky of Washington, D. C., this evening in Berkeley, a background of fragrant quince and almond blossoms in the pale pink and deep rose tones will be employed, and the studio of Miss Partridge will be the setting. The long living room overlooking the Arroyo, close by, will be used. At one end a bower of the blossoms and lighted candelabra will afford the setting for the exchange of nuptial vows. Rev. W. R. H. Rodkin of St. Mary's Episcopal church is to officiate. The guest list will include the immediate friends and relatives of the two families.

Miss Partridge will dispense with the formality of the usual ceremony, and will not wear a bridal veil. She will have as her only attendant her sister, Mrs. Robert Underhill (Grace Partridge) who is to be gowned in apple green taffeta. Contrasting with the frock will be a shower bouquet of daffodils and quince. Robert Underhill will serve as best man.

POPE BENEDICT XV SHORT SKIRT FOE

PARIS, March 4.—The late Pope Benedict XV was a militant feminist and many times expressed the opinion that women had a great mission in the world and for Christianity in particular. But he was as outspoken in his criticism as he was in his praise when some trait in woman did not meet with his approval.

He thoroughly disliked short skirts. According to a story which has just come from Rome, the Pope noticed one day cross the court of St. Damaso a woman who had called at the Vatican on some business with the Secretariat. She was wearing the latest Paris style of skirt which barely covered her knees.

Turning to one of the bishops near him, the Pope said: "I really cannot understand some women. They have no respect for anyone, not even the Pope. In the days of my youth I recall that all the young girls, my sisters for instance, were pestering their mothers to put them in long skirts. Now it appears that all the old women wish to wear short ones."

Prisoner Escapes While Trial Is On

BAKERSFIELD, March 4.—Faegan Throckmorton, on trial here on a charge of passing a fictitious check, walked from the courtroom at the noon adjournment yesterday, passed through the crowd of attaches and spectators, leaving the courthouse and escaped. The trial was in progress in the superior court, on the third floor of the courthouse.

Throckmorton's trial had just begun. The jury had been empanelled and a witness was about to be called when adjournment was taken. It is customary not to keep prisoners handcuffed in the courtroom and they are allowed the freedom of the court under the surveillance of the bailiff.

Throckmorton left his seat at the bar and walked out as though going with the bailiff on the return trip to the jail. The bailiff did not follow at his side, going out a few seconds later, when he discovered his prisoner had escaped.

Hayward Women Voters Furnish Club Quarters

By EDNA B. KINARD.

Permanent headquarters for carrying forward a permanent mission are being established by Hayward Center, California Civic League of Women Voters. The necessity for rooms where committees may meet, sections assemble for study, and which might in a sense become a feminine exchange bureau has long been felt by the leaders in the suburban city. Their ambition was realized this week.

A comfortable room on Main, near B street, has been taken over and is being prettily fitted up by the civic workers. Mrs. L. M. Turner, president, sees no reason for being selfish in keeping its convenience within the family group. It has been announced that the quarters will become a rest room for all women whether residents of Hayward or strangers passing through the city. Among the women promoters of the project are Mrs. J. G. Simpson, Mrs. George Dolan, Mrs. William Oswill and Mrs. Turner.

A plan to bring the work of the local health center and the commission for rural financial relief into closer relation, will be discussed at a program of Hayward Center on Tuesday, March 14.

War Mothers are turning their interest to baseball this month, getting behind a big benefit which is arranged on their behalf at the Oakland Coast League grounds on Sunday, March 19. Berkeley War Mothers, Mrs. M. E. Staun, president, which has undertaken leadership in the event, is claiming support of the Oakland organization. Tickets may be obtained from the members. The funds will be appropriated to hospital relief.

When the American Legion and ex-service men march on Sunday afternoon in the interests of the soldier bonus, Oakland War Mothers will join in the parade. The women have been asked to meet at the southwest corner of Fifteenth and Washington streets at 1:30 p. m. They will wear white.

Fifteen women have signed the charter roll of the San Jose branch of the League of Pen Women which was organized this week in the Hoe room of the Edwin Markham home in South Eighth street. Mrs. Katherine Dunlap Cather, author of children's stories, who is now collaborating with David Starr Jordan in writing "High Lights in Geography," presided. Among the speakers were Mrs. Grace Hyde Trino, editor of "Dreams and Voices," and Mrs. Sophie Durst, of Los Altos.

Membership will be open to writers, composers, dramatic readers, artists, editors, sculptors, scenario writers and lecturers of professional rank.

Budget making will be the subject which W. J. Hamilton, chairman of the board of supervisors, will discuss on Friday at 11 a. m. in Audhnes Temple before the economics section of Oakland Civic Center. The women of this study group are giving particular attention to public affairs. They have previously studied the school system of the city, its methods and financing. Mrs. Ella P. Rowell is chairman.

The Business and Professional Woman's Club is launching a new year on Thursday with a membership of 225. Mrs. Gladys Barndollar

Associated with her on the executive board will be: vice-president, Miss Bird Wilson; secretary, Miss Esther Hoerst; treasurer, Miss Eva Stromberg; auditor, Miss Florence King; directors, Miss Doria Cooley, Miss Eva Harris, Mrs. Sylvia Ward.

A drive for books to be presented to the library at San Quentin Prison has been launched by the Commercial Girls' Club of Martinez. "A book or the price of a book from every home," is the club slogan.

Patch-work quilts were made this week while Durant School Parent-Teacher members listened to the program arranged for the regular social meeting. Mrs. F. V. Volmer, assistant vice-president of Oakland Federation was the speaker of the day. She outlined the needs of the Junior Red Cross Shop which is partially conducted by the federation. A large number of garments, new and old, were contributed by Durant mothers.

Sigma Phi Sigma Mothers Club will meet at the fraternity house.

EXAMINATION OF HANGED SLAYER'S BODY REFUSED

Church, "Mentally Dead," Drops Through Trap While in Chair, Unconscious.

CHICAGO, March 4.—The parents of Harvey W. Church, who was hanged yesterday for the murder of two men whom he killed to gain possession of an automobile, have refused the request of Coroner Peter Hoffman that he be allowed to make a post-mortem examination of the body.

Coroner Hoffman desired to examine the body in an effort to learn what had caused the strange comatose condition in which Church was during the closing weeks of his life and when he was hanged. The coroner expressed the belief that drugs might have been given the man with the intent of keeping him silent.

The coroner said he would endeavor to learn if he has legal authority to make the examination on his own initiative.

In the same state of apparent coma in which he lay during a hunger strike lasting 46 days, Church was taken to the gallows last night after being carried to the gallows in a chair, in which he remained seated when the trap was sprung.

Almost until the moment the trap was sprung, attorneys were frantically to procure a stay of execution. Nine minutes before Church was hanged, Judge Kitchman Scanlan denied a stay, four minutes before Judge Joseph David took similar action. A petition for a writ of habeas corpus was filed in the county court and ten minutes before Church was hanged, before it could be heard he was dead.

Earlier in the day the prisoner was visited in the death cell by his parents and sister and spoke their last words to pass his lips since he started the hunger strike. He made no statement. Photographs of the hanging were made for the first time in Cook county's history.

Will May Prevent Purchase of Cave

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 4.—Unless the government acts soon a will, with a strange request, may prevent the purchase of a cave, the purchase of which has been pending at a national park. This was pointed out by Stephen T. Mather, director of national parks, in a report recently issued. A move for the purchase of the cave, a national monument, is now under way and has been urged upon Congress for action.

"The 3000 acres sought for the park purposes at the entrance to Mammoth Cave," says Mather's report, "are in private hands under the terms of a will which dictated that the land must be held in trust until such time as the death of the last named owner, when it is to be sold at public auction in its entirety."

As a conclusion, Secretary Aguirre stated that the government owns 55 per cent of the railway stock and that the demands of the minority stockholders as represented by the British protest are not legal.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 4.—Dependent because he was deficient in certain scholastic branches and fearing that he would not be graduated in June, John Burton Muntz Jr., of Germantown, Pa., member of the senior class at St. John's college, committed suicide yesterday by shooting.

STARLIGHT

Virginia Fairfax, an orphan, rebelled against the rule of her grandfather, who was a tyrant and a miser. She was a beautiful girl, and she was loved by a young man who was a rebel against the rule of her grandfather. She was a beautiful girl, and she was loved by a young man who was a rebel against the rule of her grandfather.

When I arrived at my room after the shopping expedition which had been the first thing to go to the "Alex" for found that I had spent three hundred and fifty dollars. A queer feeling gripped the pit of my stomach as I realized that in one day in Los Angeles I had spent more than half of my money.

No wonder Theodore Stratton told me that he felt sorry for me. No sane girl would have bought clothes as I had that afternoon.

However, I would not allow myself to be cast down. Tomorrow I would go out and ask for a job. Again that little sinking in the pit of my stomach was finding the road to my goal difficult.

Then I realized that if I stayed in my room another minute I would be overcome with anxiety and loneliness. I hastily dabbed my face with some of the powder that I had purchased in the store.

I thought of how grandfathers would thunder if he knew. Undoubtedly I picked up the rouge that the young woman at the toilet counter had passed me to buy and then I told it aside because I knew that I should feel too self-conscious if I should use it. So, contenting myself with blotting my lips and pinching my cheeks a little, I hastened downstairs.

The orchestra was playing and looking at the grandfather clock against the side wall of the lobby I saw it was six o'clock.

It was almost dinner time and I was glad, for I was very hungry, but I decided to wait a little while and watch the stream of young men and women who were pouring through the corridors. I wondered what they had been doing and I heard one girl say to her escort:

"I think that new tulle is the best she's ever had yet."

This would suit me very well. I was growing very tired of that fox-trot.

"They have been dancing," I said to myself enviously, and then I watched the procession with renewed interest.

It is a strange thing, but nearly all young women in Los Angeles have a certain resemblance to each other. Wide open eyes, very narrow eyebrows, exaggerated hairdos, extra long necks and stockings and a slinky walk.

It is the movie type. I found it behind the counters of the department stores, in the manner of the dancing parlors, in the street cars, in the parks and in the cheaper dining places.

I was so curious about these young girls. I wondered whether they were adopted children or not. I had heard that some of the girls who were adopted in Los Angeles were very beautiful and that they were very intelligent.

"Say, did you ever see such 'cooties' as that girl is wearing?" she asked me as she passed me.

I turned a blank face toward her and she said, "Oh, of course, you don't like them with your hair braided so demurely."

I sensed that she was speaking of the girl who was wearing the tulle. I said, "I didn't understand you at first."

"I said, 'but I think that I would try to comb my hair that way if I knew how.' It seems so so fashionable."

"Don't you do it. You are individual. I like bobbed hair myself, but they don't like you in the movies with your hair braided."

"I wear my hair bobbed on the street and pull it up under a net when I go for a job."

"Are you in the movies?" I asked breathlessly.

"Trying to be, but no director seems to realize it as yet."

"Tell me about it. I have come here to get a position in pictures if possible."

"Know anybody?"

"Not a bit."

"Any experience?"

"Not a bit."

"No?"

"No?"

"Well, rather. I can ride any horse I have ever seen."

"Any clothes?"

"Not a bit."

"Are they all as good looking as that suit you have on?"

"Yes," I answered, determined to be as laconic as the girl beside me.

"Well, you may be right. I will be a type." She said this a little doubtfully.

"What do you mean by type?" I asked innocently.

"Well, you look like a lady in the first place, and blondes usually photograph well. And—she looked at me closely—"good Lord! You've got brown eyes. The blonde with brown eyes is a find in the movies. You're only two real ones in the whole business."

POWERS TO SPEAK RELEASED

Personal Possessions Are Bequeathed to Nephew; Instrument Drawn in '16.

ROME, March 4.—(By The Associated Press.)—The late Pope Benedict, when he died, was possessed practically of no property. His only possession was the will of Benedict was opened. It was dated February 20, 1916, and its contents indicated that it was drawn while the Pope reflected on the terrors of war. In part the will says:

"The thought that my life is in God's hands, and that from one moment to another I might be taken away, counsels me to make my last will and testament, principally to declare the nature of the belongings of which I now am in possession."

"Having invoked the divine aid and putting my trust in the intercessions of the Most Holy Virgin and of Saints Joseph, Peter, Paul, James and Benedict, I accept, even to the hour of my death that moment ordained by God for the end of my earthly existence."

"I declare that I do not possess title to any property, except the belongings of the Roman pontificate, were they public or private."

"My name and the name of my nephew, Giuseppe Della Glesse, son of my brother Giovanni Antonio."

"Of other goods which I now possess or can assign at the moment of my death, I declare that they may not be by me possessed except under the title of the Holy See, for which belongings there is for me no other use, so that I am not in a position to design the possession after my death, from which moment they must be recognized as the exclusive property of the Holy See, to which they always have belonged."

"I choose the Vatican basilica as my burial place, and order that there shall be no embalming of my body, leaving in so doing that the ancient custom of burying the body is for me absolutely abolished. I rely upon the support of those persons who were attached to me by bonds of charity and trust that some day we will all be rejoined in God."

"I voluntarily deprive myself of possession of all personal goods I owned. Regarding the above named goods registered in the public registry, unless otherwise disposed of before my death, I name as my nephew, Giuseppe Della Glesse, son of my brother Giovanni Antonio."

Pastor to Make Blunderers His Sermon Theme

"Meeting the Champion Blunderer" is the subject to be discussed by Dr. Frank M. Silsley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, tomorrow evening. In discussing his subject, Dr. Silsley stated, "The world is filled with people who make blunders. The blunders frequently elicit a burst of laughter or a smile of pity, and yet, in the end, something of the blunderers in each of us, but who is the champion blunderer?"

Is the greatest blunderer the one controlled by his impulses, or the seeker after wrong society? Is the policeman who sees nothing wrong on his beat a blunderer? Is the preacher or layman a blunderer who breaks with Christ or the Bible? Is the greatest blunderer Adam or Solomon or Peter, or the modern person? Dr. Silsley states that he will take up various questions in consideration when discussing the subject tomorrow.

In the morning Dr. Silsley will use as his theme for the sermon, "The Holy Spirit and Stewardship," continuing the series on the Holy Spirit, which have been attracting large audiences.

The evening sermon will be brief, and will follow the half hour of congregational singing which has become a feature of the devotionals. A SOVIET WAR THREAT

As the rest of the earth progresses toward tranquility and normalcy Russia naturally must increase its call upon public attention. Notwithstanding the weak disbeliefs of some and the studied attitude of discontent of many, the world really has gone about the righting of itself with extraordinary rapidity, considering the deep and cataclysmic upheaval. In view of the destruction that was wrought, the work of repair has been greater than the rational and logical mind was justified in hoping for four years ago.

So the world will soon be asking in the near future, if we read present indications aright, "what is the matter with Russia?" Every other land seems to be getting back to sanity and civilized processes but the land of the Soviet experiment.

This outlook is rather heightened by the events in Moscow last week, when Leon Trotsky, the Communist minister of war, staged a great military review, at which he had march before him a more imposing armed force than the Romanoff czars ever witnessed. Trotsky, who is more of a relic of an archaic period than anything else, read an old leaf from Prussianism. He really should have shown better sense. But of this he apparently was incapable.

He had planned a spectacle of intimidation. He thought to bluff the Allies into hastening the Genoa economic conference, at which the Communists hope to resume the economic contact of Russia with the outside world. Trotsky, therefore, bellows to the effect that if the Genoa conference should not result satisfactorily for Russia, it might be necessary to tip the balance with blood. According to the Associated Press cable, he said:

"It is necessary for the proletariat to be ready, then, to face a new blow in the spring if such a situation should be forced upon us. Each week of postponement of the Genoa conference must be a week of fortifying the Red army. The time we may lose on the field of diplomacy we must and shall gain in the field of activity by fortifying and developing the army. We are fully decided, on our fourth anniversary, to prepare ourselves for a new struggle, because the finish fight between capital and labor is far from a decision."

This is the Communist war lord, the military dictator of Soviet Russia. Oblivious to the lesson of an apostle of armed might who is rapidly ageing in exile at Doorn, of another nation in travail, this charlatan squeaks his absurd threats from Moscow, while outside nations are saving millions of Russians from starvation, from the miserable fiasco of the Communists' policies of destruction.

This man probably will not understand why the Allied governments to which his threat was specially addressed are not frightened.

On the same day Trotsky held his military show and uttered his threat of a new war, Mr. Raymond Poincare and Mr. David Lloyd George, prime ministers of France and Great Britain, respectively, concluded a conference at Boulogne at which they reached complete agreement as to the attitude their governments are to maintain toward the Genoa conference. The first result of this agreement was the request upon Italy to postpone the conference from March 8 to April 10, which has been granted.

France and England will meet the Bolsheviks on Mr. Poincare's conditions of adequate political guarantees. The question of recognition of the Soviet regime will be deferred until it is seen what kind of representatives the Soviets send to Genoa. It will come up after the conference.

The still greater significance of the Boulogne meeting is that the Anglo-French agreement which former premier Briand and Mr. Lloyd George negotiated at Cannes was approved without the necessity of further discussions and will be signed and ratified before the Genoa conference takes place. The French viewpoints on necessary guarantees from the Communist government of Russia and participation of the Balkan countries comprising the "Little Eu-teute" will have the support of Great Britain. This means that a very large part of the necessary foundation for permanent peace in Central Europe and of general European reconstruction will be laid at Genoa. The Soviets may subscribe to the detailed plans there approved, giving adequate guarantees of good faith, cooperation and observance, or they may return to Moscow to witness Mr. Trotsky's foolish military parades and listen to his vacuous threats. As we said before, the Communist child must be left at home by the Communist representatives at Genoa.

NAVY STILL NECESSARY.

Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington State is quoted as saying that pacifism in the guise of false economy is threatening to reduce the navy to a negligible position.

President Harding has made an earnest plea that Congress vote an appropriation sufficient to maintain an enlisted naval personnel of at least 90,000 men. Secretary of the Navy Denby makes the same recommendation.

The Navy Department just now is begging Congress for just enough money to furnish fuel to a part of the larger warships to enable target practice. And Congress, with that perverse logic which frequently afflicts it, offers just half of the amount requested, which is equivalent to an order against even target practice for the few capital ships in commission and for the training of recruits.

Whatever the solid promises of the naval and other treaties concluded at Washington—and THE TRIBUNE urges the ratification of all of them, because they are calculated to promote international understanding and thus to lessen the danger of future wars—the country should not let the promises of these treaties drug it into the belief that a navy is not necessary.

Let us get this matter right. The whole scheme, running through the several treaties recently concluded, is not one of elimination of naval defense; it aims at a ten-year holiday in capital ship construction, the abandonment of certain new ships under construction and the destruction of certain older ships, and restriction, after the ten-year holiday, to the building of replacement units for capital ships that may have become obsolete.

Nothing more than this is provided for with regard to navies. The navy which the United States is expected to maintain under this agreement is larger than the existing commissioned navy. The navy should be kept up to, or very near to, the limit defined by the treaty, unless Great Britain and Japan voluntarily permit their naval strength to fall substantially below the treaty standard, which they will not do for some time.

It may be possible in a few years wisely to further reduce the navy. But it is not good national policy to reduce the navy to a "negligible position" now. It should first be ascertained what the other treaty powers propose to do with their navy.

In the proportion to which Congress forces reduction of the naval strength below that contemplated in the treaty will the national safety be endangered. An adequate personnel is necessary. Secretary Denby has given approximately the correct personnel strength. Congress will accept a heavy responsibility in denying the request of the government to an extent which will result in destroying personnel efficiency.

Russia is to be excluded from the proposed international corporation for the reconstruction of Europe on account of the policy of debt dodging and debt repudiations adopted by the Moscow regime. This matter should have the serious consideration of the Soviet authorities and in particular the Russian delegates to the Genoa economic conference.

The annual earned income of 1920 was over nineteen billion dollars, but the contribution of the five men who had incomes of over $5,000,000 was insignificant.

RUINED CHURCHES OF FRANCE.

The high courage of the French in the face of adversity has rarely shown itself to better advantage than in the decision of the Paris government to issue bonds, amounting in value to 200,000,000 francs, for the rebuilding of 3000 churches destroyed by the ravages of war. Carrying the burden of a vast public debt, with little present relief from the German reparations upon which they have set so much store, the French people have had all they could do to carry the ordinary expenses of government, and provide funds for the restoration of their ruined towns and villages, and for the rebuilding of houses with which to shelter the homeless. Yet this was not enough. It was not sufficient to build their homes and their schools anew. The martyred churches—some 3000 in number—must be built, however hard pressed the country was to find funds with which to meet the demands of the ordinary budget. War laid a particularly heavy hand upon the churches. The battle swept across them. They were a favorite registration and reference point for the artillery; when other landmarks failed artillery commanders could invariably find a church spire, upon which they could adjust their fire, and enable them to prepare an effective "fire effect." What light these churches could throw upon the varying fortunes of war, if they could tell their full story!

The war has done much to strengthen the cause of religion in France and increase the prestige of the church. Priests and prelates by the thousands answered the clarion call of battle, and served and suffered in the trenches side by side with laymen. There was neither Church nor State, but all was France, a grateful nation, as the dawn of peace turns into the full noon-day acknowledges its debt to the Church, and desires to repay that debt by rebuilding these thousands of ruined churches. Nor is it without significance, especially to Americans, that the French have had the initiative to begin themselves to raise funds for this purpose. Generally it shows in Washington and someone starts the story of a hard-hearted official who keeps soldiers standing in front of the White House with snow banked on their visors. It is inconceivable, of course, that such a policy, so contrary to the spirit of American fair play and so opposed to the expressed intent of the founders of the republic, will have serious support, even from those districts that would profit at the expense of the more populous counties such as Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda.—Long Beach Press.

CLINCHING THE BOIT.

It needed just an extra turn to make the bolt secure.

But he begrudged the extra turn, and when the task was through, The man was back for more repairs in just a day or two.

Two men there are in every place and one is only fair.
The other gives the extra turn to every bolt that's there.
One man is slipshod in his work and eager to be quit,
The other never leaves a task until he's sure of it.

The difference twixt good and bad is not so very much.
A few more minutes at the task, an extra turn or touch,
A final test that all is right—and yet the men are few who think it worth their while these extra things to do.

The poor man knows as well as does the good man how to work.
But one takes pride in every task, the other likes to shirk;

about YOUR HEALTH

What Icterus Gravis Is and What to Do About It

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

Fortunately there are a lot of diseases so uncommonly met that most of us are perfectly safe from their attacks. One of these is called "malignant jaundice" or "icterus gravis."

This is a disease of the liver, that organ becoming very much smaller than usual. Sometimes its weight may be reduced one-half and even two-thirds. While the normal liver weighs about three pounds, in this trouble it may be reduced to one pound in weight.

The color of the liver is changed to yellow or greenish yellow. This circumstance gives another name to the disease. It is sometimes called "acute yellow atrophy of the liver." You see why—because the liver is small, atrophied and is yellow in color.

The disease appears in persons under 40 usually. It rarely occurs before the tenth year. Women are more liable to this disease than men, considerably more than 50 per cent of the cases occurring in women, and usually as an accompaniment to pregnancy.

Severe mental shock appears to be a factor. Likewise, it is on occasions a complication of one of the contagious diseases.

As the name indicates, jaundice is the conspicuous symptom. At first it may seem to be an ordinary case of jaundice. Pretty soon, however, there are vomiting, intense headache, delirium, twitching of the body and even convulsions.

Usually there is little fever. The tongue is dry and furred. There may be unconsciousness and every evidence of serious illness.

Death may occur within a few days, or the disease may drag along for a month or more.

It is a very serious disease, because the cells and tissues of the liver actually die. The result is the shriveling and shrinking of that organ. There may be some tenderness on pressure over the liver.

In ordinary jaundice the victim is not so ill. He is yellow enough and suffers from most distressing itching of the skin. There may be some mental disturbance. In general, however, it may be said that simple jaundice is a mild and trivial affair as contrasted with icterus gravis.

In simple jaundice the other organs are little affected, while in this disease the heart, the kidneys and the spleen may become involved. Bloody spots appear in the skin, and there is every evidence of serious trouble.

A similar condition of the liver is found in phosphorus poisoning, and once in a great while after the taking of chloroform.

In the treatment the physician will attempt to control the vomiting by giving cracked ice. Cold baths and an ice-cap may help the brain dis-turbance. Stimulation is called for all through the attack. As they occur, the doctor will deal with the various complications.

TWO-GUN MACNIDER.

In his telegram demanding instant passage of the bonus bill Commander MacNider of the American Legion brandishes a pair of pistols. One he points at Congress and the other at President Harding.

Such tactics are not likely to succeed. Not only are they objectionable to every self-respecting member of Congress, but are in disregard of the rights of every citizen. Have we reached a condition where a minority of 1,500,000 can crack the whip and give orders to the representatives of more than 100,000,000?

Commander MacNider, eager for what he asserts is justice for the service men, is seemingly indifferent to justice to others. He shows no interest in how the money he asks is to be raised. Would he have the government steal it, if otherwise not obtainable? Would he levy taxes that would keep former soldiers from jobs? Mr. MacNider is patriotic, but might broaden his patriotism a little.

It would seem safe to predict that Congress and the President, driven into a corner, will not surrender their responsibility and give to Commander MacNider dictatorial powers.—New York Tribune.

MARAUDERS RAID CITY HALL, WRECK SCHOOL OFFICES

The entire eleventh floor of the city hall, occupied by the offices of the school board, was found in a state of utter disorder today as the result of a mysterious visit by midnight marauders.

Glass doors were smashed, library books were mutilated and thrown about, the desks and floors were littered with cigarette butts, and an empty whisky bottle was found in one of the corridors. The police are investigating the case, one of the theories of the mysterious visit being the possibility of an attempted jailbreak.

All of the offices were ransacked by the intruders, but so far as has been learned nothing of value was taken away. In the school library books from which pages had been torn were thrown about on the floor.

GLASS DOOR SMASHED.

The glass door of the office of E. Morris Cox, assistant superintendent of schools, was smashed and all of the doors had been broken open. The chairs and other furniture had been moved about and the indications were that the intruders had spent hours in the place, moving about, smoking and drinking.

One possibility suggested was that a group of men had broken into the place and had participated in a drinking bout of several hours' duration.

Another possibility, it was stated, was that the "party" had been held by friends of prisoners in the city jail and that they were waiting to find their aid in an expected jail delivery.

JAIL-BREAK THEORY.

A circumstance tending to lend credence to the jail-break theory is the fact that the regular "downstairs" elevator terminates on the eleventh floor. The eleventh floor is a half-way point between the downstairs elevator and the jail elevator.

The glass door which was smashed near the entrance of the jail elevator is supposed to be closed and locked at night. The men either gained entrance to the elevator or walked up the back stairs.

As soon as the matter was reported to the police, Chief of Police James E. Drew started an investigation. E. Morris Cox said that he could give no explanation of the mystery.

'FAIR WOMEN' GIVEN MINUS FASHION ACT

Number Criticized by Dancer Left Out, But Girls Prove Loyalty to Mills College by Showing in Costume Dance

Out of the storm and stress which has marked the final rehearsals of the period costume festival sponsored by the Mills Club of Alameda county, "The Vision of Fair Women," emerged exquisite and colorful at its premier in the Municipal Opera House this afternoon.

The revue of Fashion was lacking, however. The young women of the smart set who had gathered the season's latest finery from the mans of the country to glorify the modern maid instead of holding the center of the stage, occupied the boxes. Their tribune was given to Mrs. Lucile Cavanaugh Leimer, who had rehearsed the surprise act which was withdrawn last night following severe criticism from Ruth St. Denis, employed to direct the pageant.

Mrs. Leimer remained in the cast as one of the principal solo dancers, appearing in the Gavotte, which she has made famous. She was assisted by Dr. John Mitchell.

REVUE RECALLED.

Professional jealousy is charged to Miss St. Denis by local leaders who have been working on the period costume program. During the first rehearsal after her coming to Oakland, she is said to have fallen into disagreement with Mrs. Leimer, whose reputation as a dancer has long been recognized.

When the group of society girls headed by Miss Elizabeth Moore, which had been trained by Mrs. Leimer came to the dress rehearsal yesterday, Miss St. Denis interrupted them to declare that the act was so bad that it must be shortened to a minute and one-half, according to spectators. The young women were in an arms and declared they would not go into the pageant, although their robes were ready. In their stand they were upheld by many of the women prominent in the pageant plans. Announcement was made this morning that the revue of fashion was recalled.

LOYAL TO MILLS.

"The girls were not eager to enter the festival," Mrs. Horatio Bonnell declared today. "They were persuaded for the sake of Mills College to give up plans of their own to participate. They were right to resent the criticism offered 'that their act was too terrible for words' and to object being termed flappers. Their withdrawal did not harm the program although the number which was an extra would have added color to the scene. The young women are loyal to Mills and will occupy the boxes and attend the costume supper dance at Hotel Oakland."

"We cannot help but believe that Miss St. Denis vented some professional jealousy on Mrs. Leimer in criticizing the act so severely."

The young women who withdrew from the cast are: Elizabeth Magee, Kathryn Maxwell, Flora Edwards, Katherine Armstrong, Janet Knox, Doris Rodolph, Helen Rodolph, Elizabeth Moore, Vera Lewis, Aida Baxter, Gertrude Bosworth, Maud Hind, Madeline Salem Pohlmann, William Gibbs, Anna Eaton.

Color, music, light, dance united to make "The Vision of Fair Women," conceived by Mrs. Minna Gauley, one of the most gorgeous spectacles which has been presented by society on this side of the bay. Egyptian, Grecian and Roman scenes followed in the first episode which assembled a dazzling array of feminine beauty impersonating the lovely women of the ancient days.

Ruth St. Denis was the principal figure about whom the group of dancers, fruit bearers, court ladies and attendants gathered. Borne upon the shoulders of four dusky attendants, Mrs. Katherine Brown White made a dramatic entrance as the Egyptian Princess Tanita. Dazzling jewels decorated her draperies of gold cloth. Among the principals were Walter Ries, Oliver Old and Bunty Holcomb. A chant was offered by the Wednesday Morning Choral, Paul Steindorf, leader. Deep reds, jade, gold, orange and black contributed the color scheme to the several groups.

Blue and silver were combined in the setting for the Grecian scene where Aphrodite impersonated by Miss Dorothy McDonald, dominated.

DRY TURKS USE MOVIES FIGHTING OLD DEMON RUM

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 4.—The Green Crescent, a Turkish committee organized to fight the use of alcohol as a beverage, is making a drive for prohibition in the Turkish capital. Pictures showing results of intemperance are being shown in the movies and temperance lectures are being delivered by professors and hoists.

An attempt will be made to limit the drinking places in Constantinople and newspaper owners will be asked to reject liquor advertising.

Miss St. Denis assumed the role of Sappho. Brilliant reds, greens and gold were employed in the scene. A lovely parade of vanities worn by some of the most beautiful of the local women took place. Mrs. Leimer, as the Spirit of Romance, introduced the Gavotte during this scene.

The Dance of Freedom was presented by Miss Katharine Edson, and students of Mills college introduced the Minuet.

A noisy, merry, colorful act in which more than 30 Mills college students were cast brought the festival to its finale. A college night procession was followed with stunts by each of the classes. Miss Elizabeth Rheem Storer was the director.

"The Vision of Fair Women" will be repeated tonight in the Municipal auditorium. Proceeds of the pageant will be appropriated to the Mills college endowment fund.

SECRET INFLUENCE RETARDS SHIPPING SAYS CHAMBERLAIN

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Declaring that secret and insidious foreign influence by propaganda is seeking to destroy America's effort to build and maintain a merchant marine, Commissioner Chamberlain of the Shipping Board, speaking before the National Merchant Marine Association today, said that such influences "even rejoice in the imposition of strictures that tend to prejudice the American people against lending financial support to our shipping."

Unless substantial aid is given to American shipping, he said, our ships will be swept from the seas, and the immense fleet collected during and after the world war might just as well be scrapped with our battle-ship program of 1916 and our competitors placed in undisputed possession of our foreign commerce.

Chamberlain declared he did not wish to give offense in discussing "foreign interference with our domestic affairs," but that he was of the opinion it was time for Americans to speak their thoughts.

Senator Fletcher of Florida, said that direct subsidies in all history had built up a great merchant marine for my nation, and that those nations that subsidized the most accomplished the least.

"But," said the senator, "I am in thorough accord with all steps that have been taken to establish a suitable merchant marine. If I thought $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 would accomplish what we need I would unhesitatingly approve such an appropriation."

HUN AND BOCHE NAMES ON BOATS ARE WITHDRAWN

The "Hun" and the "Boche."

Those names were selected in a spirit of bravado by Hugo Stinnes, Germany's financial Colossus, for two new vessels which he recently placed in the run between Hamburg and South American ports, according to the story now making the rounds of San Francisco shipping circles.

Stinnes is said to have baptised the vessels with these unregenerate names against the advice of his business associates. He paid no heed, but when public opinion in Germany was aroused, and it was pointed out to him that he was actually harming the nation by thus publicly flaunting the entire world, he reluctantly decided to forego his sarcasm.

It is also reported that two other vessels, which are now plying between Hamburg and the Argentine, have been baptised the "Tirpitz" after Germany's grand admiral of submarine fame, and the "Ludendorff" after the German field marshal.

ELECTRICITY TO SOLVE RAILWAY TRAFFIC PROBLEM

WASHINGTON, March 4.—United electrical operation of railroads of the country would revolutionize transportation, effecting great economy in money and effort, in addition to the admitted advantages in convenience and comfort to the public. This is the conclusion reached by the United States Geological Survey after an intensive investigation.

Chief among the economies effected would be that of truckage. For instance, the Survey states the entire traffic between Philadelphia and Washington could readily be carried over the rails of the Pennsylvania system under electrical operation, leaving those of the Baltimore and Ohio for future growth.

Similarly, electric operation in the vicinity of Boston and New York would leave a margin of truck capacity so great that no money need be spent for many years for further extension of truck, it is shown.

The total cost twenty years hence, if electrification is begun now, the Survey states, would be less than the cost of the added truck and terminal facilities necessary under steam operation to provide for the inevitable 100 per cent increase in traffic within that time.

If the operation were made electrical and unified, less men and machinery would be required. There is great waste now, the Survey holds, on account of separate reserves of motor power. Further, the steam locomotive can run but eight hours a day, while the electric locomotive can operate twenty hours.

GERMANS PLAN FOR ATLANTIC CABLE TRAFFIC

BERLIN, March 4. (By The Associated Press).—The Berlin newspapers today reported that the German Atlantic and German South America telegraph companies had concluded an arrangement with American telegraph companies whereby the German companies will resume cable traffic. Under the arrangement, the German companies are to operate the section from Emden to the Azores, and the American companies the section between the Azores and New York. The German companies will be merged and will treble their capital, it was reported.

The German government will reimburse the German Atlantic company to the extent of 500,000,000 marks for confiscated cables, 100,000,000 of which will be used for the reconstruction of the line from Emden to the Azores.

WATER PLANS LAUNCHED BY UNITED CITIES

Mayor and Other Officers of All Eastbay Communities Make Program for Drive; Ballot in August Planned

The mayors, city attorneys and other officials gathered in Mayor Davis's office yesterday afternoon went on record, by resolution, as favoring immediate action toward the formation of a public utilities district, with the purchase of water supply as its first aim. The real battle begins next Friday.

A committee was appointed to make plans for a permanent organization of city officials to push the campaign.

The project for forming the district will be laid before the city council and then the board of supervisors will be asked to include it in the ballot at the August primaries to lay the matter before the people.

ACTION DEMANDED.

The water company has announced that the present water supply can only provide for the Eastbay cities nine years more at the present rate of growth, and of these nine years, five are required in which to take proper steps for the future. It announced that by the year 1932 it must be told whether the cities intend to bear the burden of the water company.

"We might as well go on record," suggested City Attorney W. J. Locke of Alameda. "Right now we can bring the matter to a direct focus and let the people decide."

The meeting was close to unanimity along these lines, though Mayor Bartlett of Berkeley suggested that the mayors and officials support the proposed "water power bill" pending before the legislature. This is a constitutional amendment, authored by Rudolph Spreckels, creating a state commission and raising funds for the development of water throughout California, and is meeting with much opposition.

"We do not want to tie up with a state-wide fight," demurred City Attorney Leon E. Gray of Oakland.

MUST HAVE DISTRICT.

"It's not on the books," agreed Mayor Frank Otis of Alameda. "The water-power bill may carry and it may not. To wait means delay. Let us act now under the 1921 statutes."

"We have to have a water district anyhow, new bill or no new bill," said C. E. Hickok of Alameda. "We talk of urging harmony and co-operation, were made by the officials, including Mayors Oliver Ellsworth of Piedmont, W. J. Christie of Emeryville and E. J. Garard of Richmond. It was then decided to appoint an organization committee."

"In preparing the campaign," said City Attorney Hall of Richmond, "we must consider territory. We should make this all one big district."

City Attorney Locke of Alameda suggested taking in the incorporated territory from Richmond to the city of Alameda, leaving out the unincorporated tract for the time. This was referred to the committee on permanent organization. At the end of the meeting, Councilman George Schmidt of Berkeley sounded the keynote of the coming campaign:

"CITIES SHOULD UNITE."

"All the Eastbay cities should unite and go down the line together."

The committee appointed to consider permanent organization, and lay the matter formally before the city councils, includes City Attorney Leon E. Gray of Oakland, City Attorney W. J. Locke of Alameda, City Attorney C. J. Hall of Richmond, Mayor Louis Bartlett of Berkeley and Marston Campbell of Oakland.

THOSE ATTENDING.

The mayors and officials will meet again Friday at 4 p. m. and will then effect the permanent organization for the coming battle at the polls.

Those participating in the preliminary discussion today were: Oakland: Mayor John L. Davis, chairman at the meeting; Councilmen Frank Colburn and A. E. Carter, City Attorney Leon E. Gray, Engineer Marston Campbell and Harbor Engineer Ralph Beebe. Alameda: Mayor Frank Otis, City Attorney W. J. Locke, City Manager C. E. Hickok and Councilman Al Latham. Berkeley: Mayor Louis Bartlett, Councilman George Schmidt, Frank Sanderson. Emeryville: Mayor W. J. Christie. Richmond: Mayor E. A. Garard, City Attorney C. J. Hall. Piedmont: Mayor Oliver Ellsworth. San Leandro: City Attorney Allison Bruner.

Ford Pays 'Outlandish' Sum for Old Machine

HUNTSVILLE, Ark., March 4.—Henry Ford may buy Muscle Shoals or even the battlefields of the world which are to be scrapped as a result of the Arms Conference, but a purchase which has interested Arkansas more than anything else was the purchase a few days ago of an old-fashioned carding machine, the first one ever brought to Madison county, for which he paid the "outlandish" sum of $300.

The old carding machine was the property of S. R. Hanby. The machine had been "out of commission" for several years and was considered by the owner as junk. Ford heard about it and offered the 300 simoleons, which were quickly accepted. Ford gave no reason for the unusual purchase.

CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES IN TRIBUNE LEAGUE SET FOR TOMORROW

STRAUGLER LEWIS REGAINS THE HEAVY WEIGHT WRESTLING CHAMPIONSHIP; BEATS ZBYSZKO

KANDY KIDS ON EDGE FOR RETURN GAME OF SERIES WITH N. S. G. W.

Andy Phillips Will Work for Natives While Kamb Is Likely Selection of Poplars.

By DOUG. MONTELL.

Last night's rain has put a new obstacle in the path of the TRIBUNE League Class "A" championship series and it looks as though Kid Sol had it in for the bushers from the way he has been acting for the past several weeks. The clear days early in the week and yesterday gave the rival managers hope that the weather would be fine tomorrow, but if the rain continues the grounds will be in no shape for the second game at Horbie McFarlin's pasture. All "pepped" up on account of their win in the initial contest, the Poplars have been around town all week with a fancy line of chatter to the effect that they think it would be a good idea to bring the series to a close with tomorrow's game, which will be the case if the Natives go to the clubhouse with the short end of the score tacked to them.

The clouds held off for another twenty-four hours and the Natives expect the Coast League pasture to be in great condition for the game. Two perfect days earlier in the week dried things out nicely and the slight downfall Thursday night did little harm on account of the clear weather. Looking back over the spring has come, and as the poets say, in the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

There is every indication of the second game of the series developing into a pitchers' battle. The rival managers appear to be making no confidence in their hurlers, according to advance remarks, for Bill Crosby of the Oakland Athletics has been definitely that Andy Phillips, the San Jose boy who twirled a no-hit game against the Maxwell Hardware team during the National division pennant race, would be back from the pruno belt this Sunday ready to hurl in his native clime. The Natives, however, are not so sure. The hustling manager of the Poplars, has been silent as to who he would send out on the mound, although the hint is out that Carl Kamb will be sent back to the Natives in an effort to repeat his win of last year. The Natives are also going the rounds to the effect that Bill Plummer, the ace of the Poplars, who pitched a shutout game for an extended period, was ready to work again, but it appears logical that the Natives will let the Natives down with but six bingles, which will give a chance to do his stuff over again.

Whereas the Natives, singly and collectively, are not to be fooled twice in the same place by Kamb's deceptive allow, they see the white of the eyes (historically speaking) on the superior hurler, twisting the Natives' arm. The Natives are not so sure. The hustling manager of the Poplars, has been silent as to who he would send out on the mound, although the hint is out that Carl Kamb will be sent back to the Natives in an effort to repeat his win of last year. The Natives are also going the rounds to the effect that Bill Plummer, the ace of the Poplars, who pitched a shutout game for an extended period, was ready to work again, but it appears logical that the Natives will let the Natives down with but six bingles, which will give a chance to do his stuff over again.

They all have plenty to say in expressing confidence in their ability to come back and even the series. "Just an idea that any club may have," said Pete Starnishin, captain and first baseman. "We'll win this time," declared Frank Garcia. "The boys are over confident and over anxious last Sunday, but watch our smother tomorrow," responded Bill Portlock. "The Natives are even better off than we are," said Pete Starnishin. "We'll win this time," declared Frank Garcia. "The boys are over confident and over anxious last Sunday, but watch our smother tomorrow," responded Bill Portlock. "The Natives are even better off than we are," said Pete Starnishin.

Winners of Series Will Play Oaks. All this agitation and determination to win on the part of both clubs has caused by the double bluff that goes to the victor in the Class "A" championship series. Not only does the victor of the series go to the Oaks, but the loser goes to the Oaks. The victor of the series goes to the Oaks, but the loser goes to the Oaks. The victor of the series goes to the Oaks, but the loser goes to the Oaks.

Bruin Cubs Annex Final Stanford Game

Shipke Suffers Broken Nose in Rough Game; Two Players Are Ejected.

The large crowd that missed the third and final Stanford-California basketball game at the Auditorium last night missed a rare treat of rough and tumble basketball in a contest in which the Bruin Babes galloped off with the long end of the score 32-15, in a game that was fast and furious from start to finish.

Yea, but the game, as was rough. Harvey Wing, the referee, announced that much of the second half was when the ejected Alexander of the Stanford first year team and Farrar of the Bear Cubs from the contest, by making the play resemble football. They were not the only ones who committed a football error, but they were the only ones who committed a football error.

The Plymouth Athletic Club of the 145-pound division led all in scoring with 232, while their defensive record was also the best. The Western Electric club, which was outclassed in their division while competing in the 145-pound division and the 145-pound division.

Two big events are on tap tonight at the Oakland Y.M.C.A. when the local basketball team, representing the local basketball team, representing the local basketball team, representing the local basketball team, representing the local basketball team.

GRINNELL, Ia., March 4.—Grinnell College basketball team won the local season last night by defeating the University of Iowa by a score of 21 to 13 in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

BOULDER, Colo., March 4.—The Colorado College basketball team won the local season last night by defeating the University of Colorado by a score of 21 to 13 in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

PORT COLLINS, Colo., March 4.—Colorado Aggies, 30; Colorado School of Mines, 21.

SALEM, Ore., March 4.—The Willamette University basketball team won the local season last night by defeating the University of Oregon by a score of 21 to 13 in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

One writer states that in his opinion, unless something is done to level up the teams, these inter-varsity contests will be foregone conclusions every year and robbed of all interest.

Broadway Bill's Weekly Review

Looks to me like the Los Angeles press agents is tryin' to cover up the Horrors of Hollywood with the massive frame of James J. Jeffries, the guy who always refused to bare his chest in a barber shop. According to the Spring street correspondents, James J. has a bad attack of religion and he intends hittin' the sawdust trail and takin' a couple of punches at Kid Satan. The news was tipped off by a preacher friend of the former champion, which gives Jeff a fine alibi when he starts tellin' everybody it is all a mistake about him tryin' to steal Billy Sunday's stuff.

Jeff Not Likely to Start Soon. It seems accordin' to the story that Jeff ain't goin' to start swingin' at Mister Satan until a certain book is published. By that time the big fellow can say it was all a mistake, an' his friend's book will be thoroughly advertised an' a lot of movie queens will be tickled to death that he's takin' the front page in connection with the Horrors of Hollywood.

Look-out Union Swings In With Protest. The members of the Hongkong Look-Outs' Union has protested again 'white men enterin' the business an' workin' in front of our best known soft drink parlors. They wasn't never no use for lookouts except in front of the Chinik lotters before Volstead won the decision an' the Chinatown help that an' it was given to him. He once ran a saloon in the south, but he never bought no drinks in it, tain't a regular saloonkeeper, an' he figured that when he took a wino's dough away from him was just gettin' ahead of the fellow up the street. Idaho Cinches Flag In P. C. Conference. MOSCOW, Idaho, March 4.—The University of Idaho cinched the Pacific Coast Conference basketball title last night by winning the first game of the series with the Washington State College last night by a score of 31 to 21. Even though Idaho showed some signs of weakness in the first half, they came back strong in the second half and won the game by a score of 31 to 21.

Strike Interrupts English Net Play. LONDON, March 4 (by Associated Press).—England's thousands of lawn tennis players are disturbed by a strike which has been in progress for three weeks amongst racket stringers and others concerned in the making of rackets. The workers have declined to accept a reduction in wages suggested by employers in view of the lower cost of living and delivery to retailers, which usually begins early in March, will be delayed, it is said, and repairs are at present impossible.

Mr. Dots Miller Careless With Conversation. Gosh, but them baseball correspondents is takin' mean cracks at the rival clubs. They sprung a tale across the bay that Dots Miller, the new manager of the Seals, intimated that Hod Eller's arm is dead as two door nails, an' up to Myrtlebeide they say the Howard Bros. is havin' a terrible time from restrainin' tied. The former Red Haver wants to demonstrate to Mister Miller that his arm is still good an' he is particularly anxious to give a practical demonstration. Mister Dots had better be Mister Duck if he happens to meet Eller in the latter's frame of mind.

Geo. Archibald, Oakland Jockey, Now in England

Former Favorite of Emeryville Turf Has Had Varied Experience in Europe.

According to word received from Archibald, former Oakland jockey and well known to local followers of the turf who is at present in England, there is intense interest in the racing scene in Europe. Archibald will be remembered as having been one of the great jockeys of the old Emeryville track, and since that time he has had a flock of varied and interesting experiences. He was in Europe preceding the war, for many months in Germany, where he rode for Baron Von Oppenheim. At the beginning of the war he left for Russia, where he went to St. Petersburg and rode for the Czar in several of the classic races in which horses of the Czar were entered. Archibald was unable to leave Russia, and spent three years there before finally going to France. After a short time in Paris at the close of the war he went to England, where he rode the horses of King Alfonso.

Archibald is declared by Frank O'Neil, war in general of the classic races in which horses of the Czar were entered. Archibald was unable to leave Russia, and spent three years there before finally going to France. After a short time in Paris at the close of the war he went to England, where he rode the horses of King Alfonso.

Neptunes Out To Win Final Soccer Match. The big battle of the Eastbay soccer league takes place tomorrow afternoon at San Pablo playgrounds when the Neptunes and Sons of St. George take up the most important game of the year. The games are no longer of interest to the local teams having been eliminated during the first round of play. Consequently all eyes are centered on the match tomorrow, which will, in a large measure, determine the outcome of the league. As the season progresses, the Neptunes are leading with 16 points, while the Sons of St. George are tied for second with 15 each. Both the Neptunes and Sons of St. George are expected to pass up their big opportunity to win the league tomorrow, which will, in a large measure, determine the outcome of the league.

Lewis Regains Heavyweight Championship

San Jose Wrestler Wins From Zbyszko At Wichita, Kansas.

WICHITA, Kas., March 4.—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, of San Jose, Cal., was again heavyweight champion wrestler of the world today, having defeated Stanislaus Zbyszko here last night by taking the last two of three falls. Zbyszko had held the title, which he won from Lewis originally for nearly a year.

Last night's match was Zbyszko's from the beginning until just before the second fall, the Pole being able to evade Lewis' holds by means of his side roll. Zbyszko won the first fall in 41 minutes 30 seconds with a bar arm hold and full body scissor. After 15 minutes and 30 seconds Lewis took the second fall with a headlock. The third was soon over, Lewis winning with another headlock in three minutes.

Jack Herman, Zbyszko's manager, said today that last night's match was the second time the Pole had been defeated in more than 3000 matches, the first time being in a contest with Frank Gotch, a former champion, in Chicago, in 1910. He said that his man can throw Lewis and that he would post $5000 at any time for a return encounter.

VICTORY DRAMATIC. Lewis' victory was sudden and dramatic. After being out-wrestled and out-generated in the first fall, he came back in the next two falls and won the match and with it the championship of the grappling world.

Lewis regained his title from the same wrestler who had taken it away from him almost a year before and had retained it by an indecisive match in New York later. The turning point of the match and the strategy that gave Lewis the advantage came after 17 minutes of wrestling in the second fall. Zbyszko had secured a wing lock and arm hold on Lewis. Lewis twisted around and then countered with a shove which sent Zbyszko across the ring. The former champion landed on his back, and Lewis, quick as a flash, was on top of him. He then applied the head lock and within a few seconds he had won the second fall.

After a few minutes' rest the grapplers were called together free in third fall. This was brief. Lewis tried two headlocks, the second taking effect.

The "Washington Daily" commenting on the edict that women at the University of Washington are to be barred from wrestling matches, says: "In consideration of the present situation of dancing, we should think it would be quite at home at a wrestling match." Yea, bo!

MAN-MADE RULES MAY CLIP WINGS OF U. C. FLAPPER

How Long Is a Skirt? Why Is It a Dance? These and More for Male Censors

BERKELEY, March 4.—Are co-eds' dresses too short? Do college dances last until too late an hour? Should rules of conduct be made for all women attending the university? These, and other questions which are entirely within the province of the women's council at the university, soon are to be finally settled, but not by the woman. Men will be called in to aid in the deliberations of the co-eds, and their opinions may decide the fate of the "campus flapper."

Usual, the college girls decide to the women's council, something that they have been doing for years. They say about the conduct of the men, and they propose to go so far as to seek advice regarding cosmetics and clothing. Former councils have formulated rules, but the results have not been satisfactory, so the girls are determined to make another attempt and they think they will enlist the aid of the college.

Olive Pressler, president of the women's council, has made this a unique decision, and has invited members of the men's council to advise with the co-eds. The first problem to be considered was the settling of a final hour for dances held on the campus, and the girls are progressing so well that Miss Pressler will see advice on the other troubles which her committee must meet.

Football heroes, editors of college publications, and class and student body officers are included in the men's organization which will act as a censor for the co-eds. Stan Barnes, tackle on the Califforn team; Frank Bartlett and Edmonds of the Califfornian, and Whitney Tenney, student body president, will assist in drawing up the rules of conduct for the girls.
